McClung Companies and Virginia Manufacturers Association Partner to Create PPE Sourcing Center

RICHMOND, VA -- The Virginia Manufacturers Association (VMA) and McClung Companies announced today the creation of a Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) Sourcing Center. This partnership arrives as a direct response to shortages in the PPE supply-chain due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

“As we prepare to reopen the economy, it is likely that enhanced PPE use will be necessary, and we cannot risk shortages in the manufacturing supply chain. The McClung Companies & VMA PPE Sourcing Center is focused on providing members with PPE and sourcing member-manufactured PPE.” said Brett Vassey, President & CEO, VMA.

Through this PPE Sourcing Center, the VMA and McClung will work together to utilize reputable sources for providing personal protective equipment and other necessary items.

“We are proud to fulfill our corporate mission, through and with a great partner like the VMA. Our mission states we are to support our community and businesses through innovation, personal service, all while exceeding expectations. There is no better way to do that, but to offer and make available products that are so critical today,” said Adam Monk, President, McClung Companies.

The VMA serves the manufacturing sector and its supply chain, and provides its members with reliable and timely information on legislation, regulation, and best practices to protect our communities.
